the best girl NepNep-NepNep-NepNep-Nep-Nep-Nep-NepNeptunaNeppyNeplyNepunneptunNeptumorNeptumorNeppinNeppermintNepperoniNyariethotep literally in every game I think Neptune (ネプ) is the main character of the Hyperdimension Neptunia series. It is one of the four main processors, the Planeptune processor. Her adventures begin after she meets Kompa and IF to find key fragments around the world and defeat some monsters along the way to save Histoire, which is sealed. It has an intelligence ratio of 78, and is fluent in three languages: English, Japanese and memespeak. The contents of the show STORY Hyperdimension Neptunia Once upon a time in Celestia, Neptune was born with half a brain. Neptune encountered three other goddesses (Werth, Blanc, and Noir) chosen for exile to signal the end of the console war. She was defeated and banished to the world below, known as Gamindustri. The next thing she knew, she was alone in the dark, and a voice reached out to her, needing her help. That voice belonged to Histuar, who was sealed. It was just a dream, though. When she woke up, she found herself in an unfamiliar room. The girl sitting next to her explained that this was her room, and that she had found Neptune, elegantly pierced the earth like a spear. She introduced herself as Compo. Neptune presents herself too, but ended up with the nickname Nep Nep Nep, because her name is too difficult for Kompa to pronounce. She embarks on a journey through the Gamindustri, collecting key fragments protected by strong monsters to break the seal on Histuar. Hyperdimecia Neptunia Victory/Re; Birth3 Things happens in Ultradimension and Neptune there is only so that the producers have a reason to call the game Neptunia, so that the game can sell. Regardless of the relative quality, if the game was called Ultradimension Plutia, the game would have sold half as much. Neptune does not make much value other than existing ones. Which, admittedly, is of great value. PERSONALITY Human Form Laid Back and Carefree. It's Nap has no care in the world and jokes around all the time. Despite everything, she cares about her friends and shows a strong sense of justice. She could do great advice. HDD Shape is more calm and observant than its human form. It's still Neptune though, so you can see its playful side shines through every now and then if you pay attention long enough. In Victory/Re; Birth3, she shows herself to be a master of the art of zucchini (aka WITTY COMEBACKS), which is a mandatory skill when working with Sadie. Loves and dislikes Neptune loves pudding. Neptune loves pudding. If Neptune doesn't eat at least 5 servings of pudding daily, she will definitely die. She doesn't like eggplant, however. She doesn't like eggplant so much that with a strong enough eggplant smell, she won't be able to maintain HDD. Neptune also hates work. She is so negative to the job that if it were not for the fact that Histoire keeps her on a literal leash, do you think that choker was just for the show?) She's She work one second a day. She's lucky to be a video game character. Neptune spends so much time eating junk food and video games that, well, let's just say that if she were a real person in real life, she'd look like some of the art you see on DeviantArt. ANATOMY The average adult height of Neptune is 4' 9 (146cm). The maximum known height of Neptune is 5' 4 (164cm). There is no known minimum height of adult Neptune. The average thigh rupture is 1.22 (3.1 cm). The anatomy of Neptune is slightly different from the average person or goddess. The most notable of which is the fact that it doesn't actually have a brain. Despite hundreds of years of research, scientists still can't figure out how Neptune manages to live without a brain, but it does. The reason why she is so stupid is directly because of her lack of brain. Most likely, the reason why she is able to survive the fall from any height, is also due to the fact that she does not have a brain, as hinted at in Victory. Neptune also has an unusual metabolism. Her metabolism specializes in the processing of carbohydrates. From a non-specific point of view, this means she can eat sweets without getting fat. The only other character in the Neptunia series who can do this is Reimu, with the power of her Yin-Yang Orb. The D-pad shaped accessories on her head appear to be paper clips, but are actually part of her body. While they are removable, Neptune becomes capricious after spending a long time without them. They are very rigid, have a plastic texture and sharp edges. The edges are not sharp enough to cut the skin, but will cause significant discomfort when rubbed. Another strangeness of Neptune's anatomy is its bone structure. At first glance, Neptune seems to have regular bones, like any ordinary person or goddess. However, instead of bones, Neptune's skeleton actually consists of so-called lazy bones. Neptune's sloths function basically in the same way as normal bones, however, the more Neptune moves, the more energy its lazybones juice from her, making her just want to skate and do nothing. They also rattle when she gets very upset. Her hands and fingers, however, have regular bones rather than lazybones, so playing video games doesn't make her sluggish at all. Although a little unrelated to her anatomy, her signature jacket has a unique ability. It gives the owner the opportunity to see behind the fourth wall. Wearing it only once will have permanent consequences, but the more someone wears it, the stronger that ability becomes. Since Neptune wears it (almost) all the time, her ability to break the fourth wall is almost unparable. Neptune has actually been in the real world once, but only for a few seconds in New Mexico. After turning right in Albuquerque, she found herself back in Gamindustri. VOICE Her Japanese voice is actress Ri Tanaka, and her English voice is actress Melissa Fan. Her Japanese voice Annoying. She seems to think: If I

GO MORE PITCHED. I'm A CUTER, CUTER, but it really works against it. Her English voice is much deeper, but perfectly embodies Neptune. She speaks playfully and jokingly, sometimes a little sings, which is a suitable voice for the mischievous, silly and energetic character of Neptune. When it comes to The Purple Heart, Fan is still better in the role than Tanaka. She's already doing a terrific job of bringing Neptune to life, while Tanaka seems to be struggling to deliver a more mature and calm voice to the Purple Heart. The fan has a very sweet, sleek caramel voice like a purple heart that can make you eargasm the moment you listen to it. Tanaka's performance as Purple Heart is very much the same as Fan's, but with a less appealing sexy mature voice along with the fact that she shows far less competence as an actor's voice. But, if you thought that Fahne's Purple Heart could make you eargasm as soon as you listen to her voice, just the thought of her performance as NEXT Purple is enough to make you eargasm more than just twice. Although Tanaka's NEXT Purple is barely noticeable compared to the old good good Purple Heart, Fan sounds much deeper and nicer than the Purple Heart, to what is considered a very different performance. She is serious and objective, which is good. I can go so far as to say that NEXT Purple is the best Fahne role of all time, because of how perfect it encapsulates it as a much more serious and powerful version of the Purple Heart, and because I don't think any role she will perform in the future or past will be as great. But while Fan is objectively better, without Tanaka, Neptune as a character will either not exist or be completely damn different, so be thankful you are picky pieces of crap. Fan and Tanaka are both great voice actors and deserve the same respect and praise, so your crappy ass Dub vs. Sub Wars isn't a fucking issue at all. Seriously, stop it. You're not helping anyone. Keep your shitty biases to yourself. Get a fucking life. Actually, you know what? Enough is enough. Forget what I said above. Both of Neptune's voices are pretty good. You can like everything you fucking want and not be classified as a fucking idiot. Unless you're zeldamon999, in this case, you're a fucking idiot. zeldamon999 thought it was a good fucking idea to try to fix some of the pages on this wiki, vandalizing the hell out of it so he could fight vandalism. I've been visiting this Wikia page since 2019 to check for vandalism cases like this, and it looks like it's finally paid off. Can you be such an idiot? Can't people understand that this Wiki cannot be taken seriously? This is how I'm removing all conquest ending links from all pages just because I don't like it. I did it? No. Will I ever do that? No. Like, you can't fucking make this shit up. Learn U'ue Neptune / TRIVIA quotes Neptune personifies and is based from the canceled Sega Neptune, which was to be a hybrid hybrid hybrid Sega Mega Drive and 32X, but was eventually canceled in favor of Sega Satan Saturn. Maybe it would be for the best, seeing how it would only be used as the basis for the Purpura heart processor sanctuary itself because of how crappy the 32X library was. Neptune has the largest of the four processors, she said. While Neptune does seem to look casual enough to wander around wearing nothing but a jacket, she does actually wear some strange shirt/sleeve/thing underneath. Neptune is illiterate. Her hoodie strings are actually USB corks. Neptune's original design was a random doodle based on the Roman sea god, Neptune. Her original design was so liked by Tsunako's colleagues that she became the main character of the series and... radically redesigned. Good job. Neptune is the best girl. There is a possibility, because of its HDD and NEXT Shapes, that Neptune just pretends to be stupid for the sake of fanservice and memes, and she actually has a hidden intelligence much more than every Neptunia character put together, it's also obvious how much references she makes to literally everything in existence. Either that or I'm just a blind fan of Neptune. If it exists, Neptune has already referred to him.
